Smith Resigns, Officials Battle

Personal grudges brought to the fore at a stormy Port and Harbor Commission meeting Thursday night precipitated a return engagement among county supervisors at a Monday meeting.

Catalyst for the verbal encounters was Dr. Michael Smith's resignation Thursday night as director of the Port and Harbor. Following Smith's resignation, effective October 31, P&H commissioners stoutly defended Smith's performance as director to County Supervisors A.A. Kellar and James Travica, only board members attending the meeting.

Commissioner Wilson Webre and Dr. John Levens placed the blame for losing Smith on county supervisors' past treatment of the director. In an eloquent indictment of supervisors' attitudes, Dr. Levens stated, "I think it is tragic that this man has been so attacked and used as a political forum by a member of the board of supervisors." Levens criticized the "lack of leadership on the part of the board... that this treatment was allowed to continue."

Webre's endorsement of Smith was reinforced by Commissioners J. D. McCallouch and Fritz Harris, who agreed that to change directors at this point in the development of the Port and Harbor industrial complex would be damaging and could jeopardize the future of industrial growth in the county.

McCallouch stated, "We are at the crossroads now of getting industry into this county. It would take a new man six months to become oriented to the Port and Harbor business."

In agreeing, Levens told Kellar and Travica, "I don't think you gentlemen fully realize the impact of what this job really requires. It took this commission one year to get on its feet." If the board wasn't going to make an effort to retain Smith, Levens warned, "you'd better get busy tonight and get yourselves another director."

Primary reason for Smith's resignation was the board's refusal to raise his salary on three different occasions and Smith's objection to being subjected to resultant haggling over the issue at past board meetings. "I will not negotiate my salary at a public meeting," Smith said emphatically Thursday night.

Travica reminded the commissioners that he had made a motion to accept a $3,500 raise for Smith at the last board meeting, but received no support from other board members, other than H. (Bully) Zengarling who had made a counter offer of $1,500.

To Smith's remark that he couldn't understand how four supervisors would allow one man to control the county, Kellar said somberly, "I very much resent some of the remarks that have been made here tonight. I have done the very best I know how as president of the board. I can't control other supervisors as you all think I should." Kellar said he would resign his position as president "tomorrow if you all want me to."

Kellar was further reproached by Harris for not stepping down from the president's chair to second Travica's motion to grant Smith the raise. Kellar said he had done that once before and would never do it again.

"I've done it," Levens said, "and it takes real courage."

The militant mood prevailed at a Monday afternoon meeting of the board of supervisors and erupted into an open confrontation between Kellar and beat one supervisor Jerry Ladner, after Travica questioned Ladner's garbage collection practices in his beat. Ladner defended his position on that matter and parried with a counter-accusation of illegal ravage of 16-section land by Kellar in beat two. He also alluded to the fact that Travica had accused him (Ladner) of illegal stocking of private ponds.

Kellar went into a lengthy discussion of the 16-section land-borrow pits, vindicating his actions by past practices set by his predecessors. Shouting at each other across the council table, Kellar and Ladner exchanged grievances until Kellar ended the skirmish by stating, "I'm telling you in public what I've told you in private, Mr. Ladner—I don't believe you're in a position to play the kind of game you're trying to play!" Kellar then called for a recess of the meeting.

Rate Hike Delayed For Study

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver vetoed a requested 15 percent raise for city utilities Monday, with the recommendation that a study be compiled to investigate a cut-in expenditures as an alternative.

In a Mayor's Message presented at the Oct. 1 city council meeting, Mayor Carver listed a break-down of city utility department figures, showing expenditures of between $35,000 and $44,871 in excess of department income for a 10-month period ending last July 31.

The Mayor's recommendation came in response to a letter, dated August 29, 1973, from City Utility Commissioner Lucien Kidd in which Kidd proposed a 15 percent "across the board increase" on city gas rates.

Kidd's request was based on a report by May Engineering Co., consulting engineering firm retained by the city to conduct a study ending Sept. 1972 of the city's gas, sewerage and water systems. The report contained several recommendations, among which was the gas rate increase, which had not been put into effect by the previous administration, Kidd noted.

Present rates are inadequate to meet current operating and equipment costs, the commissioner said, and a 15 percent raise is needed "to meet our financial obligations and provide the additional services and demands of our utility system." During a later interview, Kidd pointed out that the city of Waveland has increased its rates by 20 percent and the city of Gulfport has instigated a 30 percent hike.

Council agreed to defer action on the matter pending the study. However, Kidd noted that due to the urgency of the situation he will reiterate the raise request at the next council meeting.

LOCATION CHANGED

Location has been changed for the next meeting of the Jordan River Anti-Pollution and Improvement Association, set for 2 p.m. Saturday. The meeting will be held at the Coast Electric auditorium on Main St., rather than at the Ramada Inn as formerly announced. The meeting is open to the general public, an association spokesman said.

Treatment Plant Specialist Hired To Conform With State Edicts

The Bay St. Louis City Council disclosed Monday that a plant maintenance operator had been hired to conduct periodic pollution tests on the city's lagoon operation in compliance with federal and state directives that the city meet present ecological specifications by 1977.

The city was advised on September 25 by the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission that the present sewage disposal system was inadequate.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver said that Sidney Sandoz was presently receiving training at Gulf Coast Jr. College in lagoon operation and sewage disposal plant operation. The training will last through December, he said. Councilman Lucien Kidd said Wednesday that authorization had also been given the Corps of Engineers to do a feasibility study on the city's sewage disposal system. This, he said, was the first step necessary to receive federal monies.

The Air and Water Pollution Control Commission and the federal Environmental Protection Agency presently require twice monthly testing for chlorination, Kidd said.

"We are doing everything we possibly can to meet these new requirements," he said.

In other council action, Mayor Carver presented a request to the council calling for a cost study for the City

Utilities Department. Carver said that an operating statement for the ten-month period of Oct. 1, 1972 thru July 31, 1973 showed expenditures between $35,507.80 and $44,871.77 in excess of receipts for that period. The difference in figures, he said, depended on "which method of accounting you wished to follow."

A recommendation was made recently by Utility Commissioner Lucien Kidd and city engineers that the city impose a 15 percent rate increase on the sale of natural gas. Carver has opposed such a rate hike and has campaigned instead for a study into ways that expenses can be curtailed.

Kidd said that he "didn't like the Mayor's report. Utilities," he said, "are just like a business—not like a city." Each year the city's bond indebtedness is higher, he added, and the interest is high. All costs are higher, he said.

The council held action on a request by the Hancock Bank to continue to pay the city taxes on beach front property being used as a parking lot, and held action on a proposal for a sidewalk on Dunbar Ave. from Felicite St. to North Bay Elementary School.

The council announced bids would be received until 11 a.m. Tuesday Oct. 23 for street repairs within the city and bids would be sought for exterior repairs on the City Hall building.

Attention was drawn to the fact that drainage has become a major problem in several parts of the city. Mayor Carver said that he felt part of the problem resulted in the unusual heavy rainfall lately. Councilmen Kidd and Clarence Ladner reported that water in the area of Spanish Acres was over people's shoe tops last week. Wednesday, Kidd said that consulting engineers were surveying the major drainage systems over the entire city. Much of the problem, he said, resulted from clogged drains and undersized pipe.

Council approved a request by county Civil Defense Director Don McIntyre for installation of air conditioning and heating in the Civil Defense main office at a pro rata cost of $225.

In other action, councilman Kidd reported that periodic maintenance had been performed on the city's two water tanks, and that the city owed the Utility Commission $18,200 for 91 additional fire plugs which were added to the city system. A request by the American Association of Retired Persons for exclusive use of the Valena C. Jones gym was turned down and a request for a tax exempt status from Trinity Christian Training Institute was taken under advisement.

The Mayor also announced that he felt the city should have a full time dog catcher and would recommend Michael Bailey for the job. Gus Mitchell, who had been doing the work on a part-time basis will be replaced.

Sheriff Gives Waveland Ultimatum On Jail Bill

Hancock County Sheriff, Sylvan Ladner told the Waveland City Council Tuesday night that they could "just go out and get themselves a hitching post to tie their prisoners to" unless the city came up with $2,004 that the sheriff says is owed his department by the city of Waveland for prisoners detained in the county jail.

Ladner told the council the bill represented $2,008 for victualing (feeding) prisoners and another $716 for bond and commitment fees during the period Jan. 3, 1972 to Sept. 3, 1973.

City alderman Ducre Bourgeois told the sheriff not to worry about the money. Ladner said that he was going to worry about it until the 15th of the month and after that Waveland could take care of their own prisoners unless it was paid.

Bourgeois argued that the city did not owe the sheriff the money since they had never paid it under the old system of fee collecting, and didn't feel that they should have to pay it now.

Waveland City Marshal Fred Bourgeois objected to the bill because, he said, it represented fees charged for juveniles too, which were only detained long enough by the sheriff to make a phone call to their parents.

City attorney Lucien Gex, Jr. wanted the city to work out the past bill with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and begin immediately paying the $2 a day fee charged by the Sheriff for victualing each prisoner. The Sheriff, he said, should let the city work out the payment with the supervisors since his budget had already been met for last year.

Ladner maintained that the city owed the bill regardless of whether his budget had been met for last year or not.

Mayor pro tempore John Longo had to strike the gavel for order several times as the meeting threatened to get out of hand and turn into a shouting match between alderman Bourgeois and Ladner.

The council also moved to have a new zoning map drawn up for the city indicating all changes that were not on the old map and that it be presented at a future meeting for re-adoption.

A motion passed to issue a permit for condominiums to be built on Lakewood Drive. At completion, city clerk Barbara Rappold said that the project would contain 18 units.

The council also voted to install three welcome signs at key entrance points into the city. Two will be put up on Highway 90 and the other on I-10 expressway.

In a twist of mood, the council voted to adopt a resolution to commend the Hancock Board of Supervisors, Sheriff Sylvan Ladner and the Sheriff's office for past cooperation.

In its final act of business, Alderman Dan Campion made a motion to send Waveland police officer Terry Holmes to the two week investigators school to be held in Jackson beginning November 19. The school is conducted by the Mississippi Highway Patrol Academy. Campion said that all fees, except salary, are paid for by the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency. The motion passed unanimously.

United Fund Drive . . . Off To A Good Start As Thermometer Rises

The 1973 United Fund campaign is off to a good start with the familiar big thermometer showing $5,000 already collected toward the $30,000 goal by the second day of the campaign drive.

Hancock county citizens can watch the progress of campaign collections indicated on the thermometer which is displayed this year on the county court house grounds.

The Hancock County United Fund was organized nine years ago by a group of citizens concerned with the needs of so many segments of the county's population. Since then, the blanket of coverage has grown at an amazing rate.

This year two new agencies have been added to the list of nine organizations supported by United Fund in Hancock county. The Area-wide Model Project for the Elderly, encompassing multiple intra-agency activities for senior citizens, will receive United Fund assistance in addition to federal, state and local support.

In its second year of operation, the Senior Citizens program provides services and activities for a rapidly growing list of elderly residents, who comprise 15 percent of the county's population. Too long neglected and too often indigent, area senior citizens are now receiving a myriad of services which include meals-on-wheels (daily hot meals delivered to homes), transportation, recreation, information and referral, counseling, home visits, nursing and medical attention and homemaker assistance.

Expanded activities to be conducted at both the Bay St. Louis and Pearl River centers, now in the planning stage, can become realities through United Fund support.

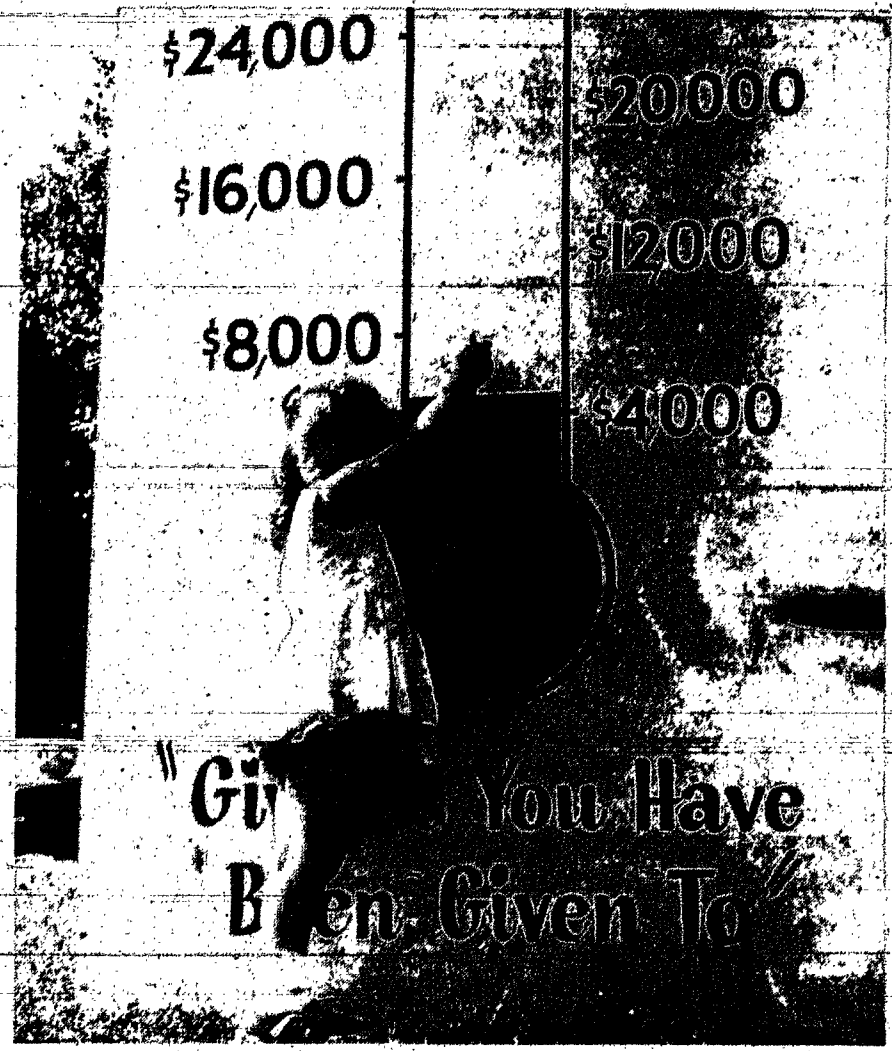

RSVP, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, is the second addition to the United Fund roster this year and is an integral part of the senior citizen program. With UF funding, an RSVP office and coordinating staff provide senior citizen volunteer workers who aid, not only other seniors, but numerous community agencies and individuals.

Through the multiplicity of agencies it supports, the United Fund touches just about every corner of the community, from infants and children to the aged; the physically ill and emotionally disturbed; the family in trouble and the service man away from home; Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the blood bank and the disaster victim.

If you have been aided by a United Fund agency, now is a good time to repay the debt of gratitude. If you haven't been, this is the best time to make an investment toward the future. Someday, you may be glad you did.

REACHING UP -- to mark the $5,000 point, little Virginia Lynn Hall draws a line indicating donations already received by the second day of the Hancock County United Fund campaign.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

The weather of the past weekend was ideal for both fishing and hunting. The tides were right and the weather was a little cooler. The water in Pearl River and its tributaries has cleared since a week ago. Bass and perch are hitting again.

On the fishing side speckles have been hitting again on the R.R. Bridge, St. Stanislaus wharf and the American Legion Pier. Big croakers are being caught—most everywhere. Some red fish are being gotten.

Saturday ushered in the first segment of the dove season in the South zone. As shooting starts at 12 noon there was no rush to go to the fields. Haven't gotten too much on how many birds were bagged. But you can bet there were quite a few brought home. There are some mighty good dove shooters hereabout. Among them are August Rauxet and his three sons, Nicky, Keen, and Ronnie, A.C. Mitchell, Harold Zimmerman, Norman Penrose, Ray Garner to mention a few.

We know that Harry Roman, Louis Decell and Hoke Ogden went on the opening day. They are also quail hunters.

Vic Schwartz and Al Leddy's temperatures were up Saturday morning waiting for 12 o'clock to come when they could shoot the prize birds. They said they couldn't say which was best—hunting doves or fishing.

Judge Homes was the guest of Mr. Wm. Emmerson at Leland, Miss. He enjoyed a dove hunt in which 50 hunters participated. Judge said all killed their limit. There were plenty doves. The Judge really went for a fishing trip but it turned into a hunting trip. You all know the Judge.

Mourning doves have small heads, slim, streamlined bodies and long pointed tails. They are migratory birds and fast flying. The main foods for doves are seeds and waste grain. Reason for their scarcity in the South now—days is that there are not too many fields in which they can feed. We get our share of them by the hardest. The second and third segments of the dove season are best down South. The first segment on doves closes on October 14, followed by two more segments to follow. Doves are known by their soft, five-syllabled coo.

Joe Momony and Miriam are visiting Nick and Gloria Schneider. Joe hopes to retire and live in Bay St. Louis. They have many friends here.

Hard crabs are again plentiful and giving good. They are being caught most anywhere.

Made a trip to Bordage Fishing Camp Tuesday. Believe it or not they had some live bait shrimp. Didn't last too long. Also had hard crabs for sale. Ray, Sam and Willfred enjoy serving their customers. Have a hoist to handle all size boats. The camp is up Bayou Caddy. Expect to have live shrimp from now on.

Argle Mitchell was out after bass Wednesday after a short stay in the hospital. He said he made a fair catch. Will be back soon you can bet.

There is a split season on squirrels the first segment opened on Sept. 29th and runs thru Oct. 27. Rabbits may be hunted with guns during open season on any game hunted with guns.

Don't know why Eddie Marquez doesn't go flounder hunting. They have been getting a few lately in front of your place, Eddie.

Still see ducks and geese passing overhead. Must be getting cold up north. This is a good sign. Should be some real shooting this season.

Bream fishing which usually tapers off this time of the year is holding pretty good in most bayous and lakes. They are hitting popping bugs and live bait: minnows, snail crayfish, tad poles, etc. on the pole and line.

John Genin has moved into his apartment. Still fixing it up. Should be able to go fishing soon. Missing some good fishing, fellow.

Some sportsmen are busy planting a winter garden, such as turnips, collards, broccoli, carrots. An active fellow can always find something to do. Catching fish, killing game and a small garden can help out on the family grocery budget.

Dick Mestayer and sons Dick and Allen will take to the fields soon. They are all good hunters and fishermen and bring home the bacon.

Jourdan River has always been a favorite with fly and casting fishermen. The river is now clear and some bass and perch are being caught.

In the winter time speckles are caught by trolling, casting and bait fishing. It is excellent for bait fishing for red fish, croakers, sheepshead and other salt water fish. Flounders are gotten by spearing and casting rods with bait.

Rotten Bayou, Bayou LaCroix and the river proper will be excellent for fly fishing and casting with under water baits from now on.

Ever try catching flounders at the mouth of Bayou LaCent by casting with a smoky shrimp? It pays off at times.

Did you know that Woodcock fly in two weeks and are fully grown in 25 days? Earth is Harris Boudreaux, a member of the Bay St. Louis police department. Harris enjoys the outdoors and when of duty fishes, crabs and casts for shrimp. He's good with the cast net and gets his share when they're running. He also does some hunting.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK

worms are its major food and a bird may consume its own weight daily. Few hunters hunt Woodcock hereabout. A good eating bird about the size of quail or snipe. They are found in marshy places. Hard to hit on the wing. Usually hunted with dogs. Can be kicked up.

Clois Dedeaux took his wife, Geneva, his daughter Pamela and his son Mike on a boating and fishing trip one day last week. The trip finally wound up as a picnic with sandwiches, etc. Some nice fish were caught including red fish and flounders. It was the first boat trip for Mrs. Dedeaux.

Believe it or not skiers just won't give up. There were plenty of them up Jourdan River and Bayou LaCroix Sunday. They should learn to respect others who are fishing. The waters belong to everybody.

VON ANTZ EARNS WINGS Navy Ensign Gerald W. Von Antz, son of Mrs. Geraldine Von Antz of 422 Sears Ave., Waveland, was designated a Naval Aviator and received his "Wings of Gold" during ceremonies in Pensacola last week. He completed more than a year of intensive ground and inflight helicopter training. He is a 1968 graduate of Bay Senior High School and a 1972 graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

Smith Resigns, Officials Battle

Personal grudges brought to the fore at a stormy Port and Harbor Commission meeting Thursday night precipitated a return engagement among county supervisors at a Monday meeting.

Catalyst for the verbal encounters was Dr. Michael Smith's resignation Thursday night as director of the Port and Harbor. Following Smith's resignation, effective October 31, P&H commissioners stoutly defended Smith's performance as director to County Supervisors A.A. Kellar and James Travirca, only board members attending the meeting.

Commissioner Wilson Webre and Dr. John Levens placed the blame for losing Smith on county supervisors' past treatment of the director. In an eloquent indictment of supervisors' attitudes, Dr. Levens stated, "I think it is tragic that this man has been so attacked and used as a political forum by a member of the board of supervisors." Levens criticized the "lack of leadership on the part of the board... that this treatment was allowed to continue."

Levens' endorsement of Smith was reinforced by Commissioners J. D. McCulloch and Fritz Harris, who agreed that to change directors at this point in the development of the Port and Harbor industrial complex would be damaging and could jeopardize the future of industrial growth in the county.

McCulloch stated, "We are at the crossroads now of getting industry into this county. It would take a new man six months to become oriented to the Port and Harbor business."

In agreeing, Levens told Kellar and Travirca, "I don't think you gentlemen fully realize the impact of what this job really requires. It took this commission one year to get on its feet." If the board wasn't going to make an effort to retain Smith, Levens warned, "you'd better get busy tonight and get yourselves another director."

Primary reason for Smith's resignation was the board's refusal to raise his salary on three different occasions and Smith's objection to being subjected to resultant haggling over the issue at past board meetings.

"I will not negotiate my salary at a public meeting," Smith said emphatically Thursday night.

Travirca reminded the commissioners that he had made a motion to accept a $3,500 raise for Smith at the last board meeting, but received no support from other board members, other than H. (Bully) Zengarling who had made a counter offer of $1,500.

To Smith's remark that he couldn't understand how four supervisors would allow one man to control the county, Kellar said somberly, "I very much resent some of the remarks that have been made here tonight. I have done the very best I know how as president of the board. I can't control other supervisors as you all think I should." Kellar said he would resign his position as president "tomorrow if you all want me to."

Kellar was further reproached by Harris for not stepping down from the president's chair to second Travirca's motion to grant Smith the raise. Kellar said he had done that once before and would never do it again.

"I've done it," Levens said, "and it takes real courage."

The militant mood prevailed at a Monday afternoon meeting of the board of supervisors and erupted into an open confrontation between Kellar and beat one supervisor Jerry Ladner, after Travirca questioned Ladner's garbage collection practices in his beat. Ladner defended his position on that matter and parried with a counter-accusation of illegal ravage of J6-section land by Kellar in beat two. He also alluded to the fact that Travirca had accused him (Ladner) of illegal stocking of private ponds.

Kellar went into a lengthy discussion of the 16-section land borrow pits, vindicating his actions by past practices set by his predecessors. Shouting at each other across the council table, Kellar and Ladner exchanged grievances until Kellar ended the skirmish by stating, "I'm telling you in public what I've told you in private, Mr. Ladner. I don't believe you're in a position to play the kind of game you're trying to play." Kellar then called for a recess of the meeting.

Rate Hike Delayed For Study

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver vetoed a requested 15 percent raise for city utilities Monday, with the recommendation that a study be completed to investigate a cut in expenditures as an alternative.

In a Mayor's Message presented at the Oct. 1 city council meeting, Mayor Carver listed a breakdown of city utility department figures, showing expenditures of between $35,000 and $44,871 in excess of department income for a 10-month period ending last July 31.

The Mayor's recommendation came in response to a letter, dated August 29, 1973, from City Utility Commissioner Lucien Kidd in which Kidd proposed a 15 percent "across the board increase" on city gas rates.

Kidd's request was based on a report by May Engineering Co., consulting engineering firm retained by the city to conduct a study ending Sept. 1972 of the city's gas, sewerage and water systems. The report contained several recommendations, among which was the gas rate increase, which had not been put into effect by the previous administration, Kidd noted.

Present rates are inadequate to meet current operating and equipment costs, the commissioner said, and a 15 percent raise is needed "to meet our financial obligations and provide the additional services and demands of our utility system." During a later interview, Kidd pointed out that the city of Waveland has increased its rates by 20 percent and the city of Gulfport has instigated a 30 percent hike.

Council agreed to defer action on the matter pending the study. However, Kidd noted that due to the urgency of the situation he will reiterate the raise request at the next council meeting.

LOCATION CHANGED

Location has been changed for the next meeting of the Jourdan River Anti-Pollution and Improvement Association, set for 2 p.m. Saturday. The meeting will be held at the Coast Electric auditorium on Main St., rather than at the Ramada Inn as formerly announced. The meeting is open to the general public, an association spokesman said.

Treatment Plant Specialist Hired To Conform With State Edicts

The Bay St. Louis City Council disclosed Monday that a plant maintenance operator had been hired to conduct periodic pollution tests on the city's lagoon operation in compliance with federal and state directives that the city meet present ecological specifications by 1977.

The city was advised on September 26 by the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission that the present sewage disposal system was inadequate.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver said that Sidney Sandoz was presently receiving training at Gulf Coast Jr. College in lagoon operation and sewage disposal plant operation. The training will last through December, he said. Councilman Lucien Kidd said Wednesday that authorization had also been given the Corps of Engineers to do a feasibility study on the city's sewage disposal system. This, he said, was the first step necessary to receive federal monies.

The Air and Water Pollution Control Commission and the federal Environmental Protection Agency presently require twice monthly testing for chlorination, Kidd said.

"We are doing everything we possibly can to meet these new requirements," he said.

In other council action, Mayor Carver presented a request to the council calling for a cost study for the City

Utilities Department. Carver said that an operating statement for the ten-month period of Oct. 1, 1972 thru July 31, 1973 showed expenditures between $35,507.80 and $44,871.77 in excess of receipts for that period. The difference in figures, he said, depended on "which method of accounting you wished to follow."

A recommendation was made recently by Utility Commissioner Lucien Kidd and city engineers that the city impose a 15 percent rate increase on the sale of natural gas. Carver has opposed such a rate hike and has campaigned instead for a study into ways that expenses can be curtailed.

Kidd said that he "didn't like the Mayor's report. Utilities," he said, "are just like a business—not like a city." Each year the city's bond indebtedness is higher, he added, and the interest is high. All costs are higher, he said.

The council held action on a request by the Hancock Bank to continue to pay the city taxes on beach front property being used as a parking lot, and held action on a proposal for a sidewalk on Dunbar Ave. from Felicite St. to North Bay Elementary School.

The council announced bids would be received until 11 a.m. Tuesday Oct. 23 for street repairs within the city and bids would be sought for exterior repairs on the City Hall building.

Attention was drawn to the fact that drainage has become a major problem in several parts of the city. Mayor Carver said that he felt part of the problem resulted in the unusual heavy rainfall lately. Councilmen Kidd and Clarence Ladner reported that water in the area of Spanish Acres was over people's shoe tops last week. Wednesday, Kidd said that consulting engineers were surveying the major drainage systems over the entire city. Much of the problem, he said, resulted from clogged drains and undersized pipe.

Council approved a request by county Civil Defense Director Don McIntyre for installation of air conditioning and heating in the Civil Defense main office at a pro rata cost of $225.

In other action, councilman Kidd reported that periodic maintenance had been performed on the city's two water tanks, and that the city owed the Utility Commission $18,200 for 91 additional fire plugs which were added to the city system. A request by the American Association of Retired Persons for exclusive use of the Valena C. Jones gym was turned down and a request for a tax exempt status from Trinity Christian Training Institute was taken under advisement.

The Mayor also announced that he felt the city should have a full time dog catcher and would recommend Michael Bailey for the job. Gus Mitchell, who had been doing the work on a part-time basis will be replaced.

Sheriff Gives Waveland Ultimatum On Jail Bill

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner told the Waveland City Council Tuesday night that they could "just go out and get themselves a hitching post to tie their prisoners to," unless the city came up with $2,804 that the sheriff says is owed his department by the city of Waveland for prisoners detained in the county jail.

Ladner told the council the bill represented $2,088 for victualing (feeding) prisoners and another $716 for bond and commitment fees during the period Jan. 3, 1972 to Sept. 3, 1973.

City alderman Duane Bourgeois told the sheriff not to worry about the money. Ladner said that he was going to worry about it until the 15th of the month and after that Waveland could take care of their own prisoners unless it was paid.

Bourgeois argued that the city did not owe the sheriff the money since they had never paid it under the old system of fee collecting and didn't feel that they should have to pay it now.

Waveland City Marshal Fred Bourgeois objected to the bill because, he said, it represented fees charged for juveniles too, which were only detained long enough by the sheriff to make a phone call to their parents.

City attorney Lucien Gex, Jr. wanted the city to work out the past bill with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and begin immediately paying the $2 a day fee charged by the Sheriff for victualing each prisoner. The Sheriff, he said, should let the city work out the payment with the supervisors since his budget had already been met for last year.

Ladner maintained that the city owed the bill regardless of whether his budget had been met for last year or not.

Mayor pro tempore John Longo had to strike the gavel for order several times as the meeting threatened to get out of hand and turn into a shouting match between alderman Bourgeois and Ladner.

The council also moved to have a new zoning map drawn up for the city indicating all changes that were not on the old map and that it be presented at a future meeting for re-adoption.

A motion passed to issue a permit for condominiums to be built on Lakewood Drive. At completion, city clerk Barbara Rappold said that the project would contain 18 units.

The council also voted to install three Welcome signs at key entrance points into the city. Two will be put up on Highway 90 and the other on I-10 expressway.

In a twist of mood, the council voted to adopt a resolution to commend the Hancock Board of Supervisors, Sheriff Sylvan Ladner and the Sheriff's office for past cooperation.

In its final act of business, Alderman Dan Campion made a motion to send Waveland police officer Terry Holmes to the two week investigators school to be held in Jackson beginning November 19. The school is conducted by the Mississippi Highway Patrol Academy. Campion said that all fees, except salary, are paid for by the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency. The motion passed unanimously.

United Fund Drive . . .

Off To A Good Start As Thermometer Rises

The 1973 United Fund campaign is off to a good start with the familiar big thermometer showing $5,000 already collected toward the $30,000 goal by the second day of the campaign drive.

Hancock county citizens can watch the progress of campaign collections indicated on the thermometer which is displayed this year on the county court house grounds.

The Hancock County United Fund was organized nine years ago by a group of citizens concerned with the needs of so many segments of the county's population. Since then, the blanket of coverage has grown at an amazing rate.

This year two new agencies have been added to the list of nine organizations supported by United Fund in Hancock county. The Area-wide Model Project for the Elderly, encompassing multiple intra-agency activities for senior citizens, will receive United Fund assistance in addition to federal, state and local support.

In its second year of operation, the Senior Citizens program provides services and activities for a rapidly growing list of elderly residents, who comprise 15 percent of the county's population. Too long neglected and too often indigent, area senior citizens are now receiving a myriad of services which include meals-on-wheels (daily hot meals delivered to homes), transportation, recreation, information and referral, counseling, home visits, nursing and medical attention and homemaker assistance.

Expanded activities to be conducted at both the Bay St. Louis and Pearllington centers, now in the planning stage, can become realities through United Fund support.

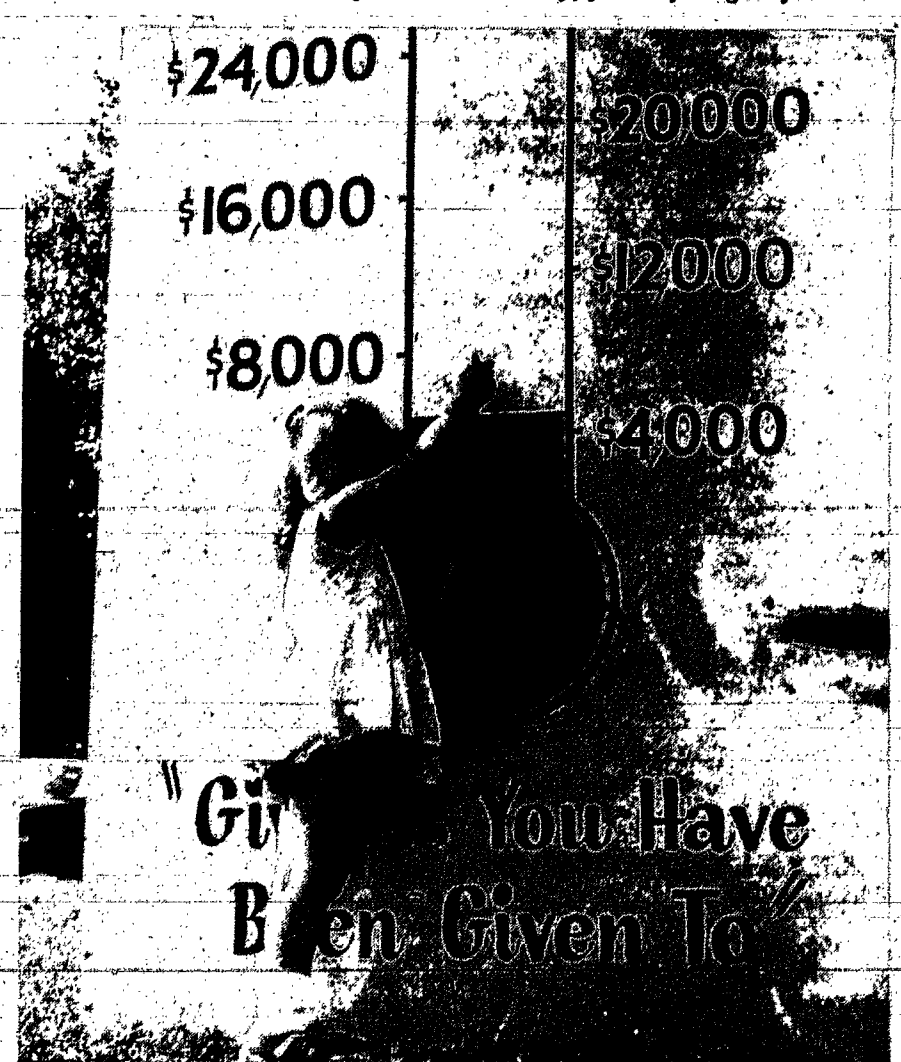

RSVP, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, is the second addition to the United Fund roster this year and is an integral part of the senior citizen program. With UF funding, an RSVP office and coordinating staff provide senior citizen volunteer workers who aid, not only other seniors, but numerous community agencies and individuals.

Through the multiplicity of agencies it supports, the United Fund touches just about every corner of the community, from infants and children to the aged; the physically ill and emotionally disturbed; the family in trouble and the service man away from home; Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the blood bank and the disaster victim.

If you have been aided by a United Fund agency, now is a good time to repay the debt of gratitude. If you haven't been, this is the best time to make an investment toward the future. Someday, you may be glad you did.

REACHING UP -- to mark the $5,000 point, little Virginia Lynn Hall draws a line indicating donations already received by the second day of the Hancock County United Fund campaign.

Questions Answered On Food Stamp Program

(This column is prepared by the Food Assistance Division in cooperation with the Informational Services Unit of the Mississippi State Department of Public Welfare, Max M. Cole, Commissioner)

Q. Why do I have to pay for Food Stamps?

A. Actually, you are really putting money aside and receiving extra money for doing so. It's like paying an insurance premium each month, e.g., you are paying an amount to insure that you have a larger amount to spend on food.

Q. Food Stamps Cost Too Much.

A. You are really swapping your food money for a different kind of money, and more of it. Since you must spend money for food anyway, doesn't it make sense to swap some of this food money for more food money?

Q. I Don't Spend as Much on Food as the Food Stamps Cost.

A. If you were to keep up each week with the amount of money you spend on food items, it would be much more than the price of your food stamps. You should keep up with the number of times you go to the grocery store and the number of times you send someone else to pick-up a loaf of bread or a gallon of milk. This all adds up. Most of the time you THINK you spend a lot less than you actually do.

Q. I Can't Buy All That Food at One Time.

A. The Food stamp coupons are just like money. They can be spent at any time and you can spend as many as you want of the ones issued to you. However, the wise shopper will spread the food stamps out to last until it is time to buy food stamps again.

Remember, we are trying to answer these questions in a general way and that when a person applies for food stamps his individual situation is considered. If you think you may be eligible to receive food stamps, please contact your local Welfare Department. They will be happy to talk with you.

County Drug Specialist Outlines Education Program

A series of preliminary meetings with school administrators to explore all the various facets of drug abuse is underway by Ebner Ferguson, drug abuse specialist for the Hancock County School System.

In four earlier meetings, principals of Hancock North Central Elementary and High school, Charles B. Murphy Elementary and Gulfview Elementary met with Ferguson to hear discussions of the drug abuse problem as it relates to today's school student.

At one of the more recent sessions, the principals heard District Attorney Albert Necaise explain areas of jurisdiction on the school campus. Participating with Necaise was Richard Smith, legal intern in the district attorney's office. Other guest speakers were Ronald Peterson, Hancock County special agent in the sheriff's office and Sheriff's Deputy Robert Harvey, who bought a display of marijuana and drugs most prevalent in the Gulf Coast area.

Necaise told the principals that their jurisdiction on school property included the legal right to search any student's person, locker or personal belongings for narcotics or paraphernalia at any time the principal felt there was reasonable cause.

The district attorney also pointed out that all school administrators had an obligation to notify local law enforcement officers of any infractions of narcotics laws on campuses, so offenders will understand that the law will be enforced in school as well as off-campus.

Peterson stated that 80 percent of the narcotics offenders that he has arrested followed a pattern as to dress and behavior.

Both Necaise and Peterson agreed that, in their opinion, a good many of today's youth turn on to drugs because of a lack of communication with parents, coupled with a need for acceptance by their contemporaries.

In conclusion, Necaise emphasized the need for principals to be left alone to do their jobs in the schools as they should be and are capable of doing, without outside pressures. If this were possible, Necaise stated, a lot of current youth-related school problems would be eliminated.

Attending the meetings with county principals were Wilmer Seymour, drug abuse specialist for the Bay-Waveland Municipal School district and Sister Joan Lorraine of Annunciation School.

Tuesday, Ferguson appeared before the county school board to outline upcoming plans for bringing the drug education program into the classrooms. He had asked the various principals to arrange a schedule for faculty workshops followed by teacher-student surveys, Ferguson explained. He also told the board that he was seriously hampered by an availability of source material and visual aids, as his budget didn't allow for purchase of needed materials.

Other chairmen include Mrs. Don Corr, Mrs. L. Hopkins and Mrs. J. Hill, drinks; Mrs. J. Collins and Mrs. D. Ladner, popcorn; Mrs. L. H. Ott and Mrs. J. B. Wesselman, fish pond; Mrs. Ted Noyes and Mrs. W. D. Howard, penny pitch booth and Mrs. H. Heine and Mrs. A. Trapani, novelty.

Anyone who can help by collecting odds and ends or making stuffed animals, dolls, puppets, pillows, or getting plants for the booths is asked to do so.

Q. Why Can't I Buy Soap, Paper Products, and Cigarettes with Food Stamps? I Always Put Them on my Grocery Bill.

A. Food stamps are meant to provide you with more money to buy better food. This means better health for you. If you buy food stamps, you will have extra money to buy these other items.

Bay St. Louis Police Report

Two one car accidents were the highlight of activities for the Bay St. Louis Police Department for the period from Sept. 27 thru Oct. 3.

A one car accident resulted at 962 So. Beach Saturday when Earl K. Holland of Waveland lost control of his 1964 Falcon auto on a curve. The auto skidded on the rain slick street and overturned. No one was injured.

In another accident Saturday, an automobile driven by John Ross went out of control and struck a utility pole on Ruella St. No personal injuries were reported.

Police reported a child's mini bike was taken from the yard of Mrs. Brenda Halchias at 603 Beyer Dr. last Thursday.

Four Alabama youths were picked up early Monday morning. Two female juveniles age 16 and 17 were charged as runaways and with breaking curfew and were turned over to the custody of their parents. Two males, Don Wayne Whitehead, 19, and Gary Britton, 18, were each charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and were being held for appearance in city court Wednesday.

Chief of Police William Carbonette said that a display case on drug information is being provided in the Bay Police Department and encourages anyone who would like to know more about drugs and their effects to pick up the free literature.

Hospitals' Expenditures Approved By Council

Action on 27 applications for certification of the need for expenditures for hospital and nursing home construction has been taken by the State Health Planning Advisory Council, an advisory body to the Division of Comprehensive Health Planning, according to F. Lindsey Risher, M.D., executive director of CHP.

"Approval was given to 21 applications," said Dr. Risher, "and negative action was taken on six requests."

In Mississippi all hospitals and nursing homes planning expansion, new construction or modification must receive approval by the Advisory Council to Comprehensive Health Planning.

CHP is designated as the sole state agency responsible for the review of capital expenditures by health facilities receiving federal money under the Medicare, Medicaid or Child and Maternal Health sections of the Social Security Act which exceed $100,000, change the bed capacity or substantially alter the scope of services offered.

Hospitals given approval for expenditures include North

Panola County Hospital, Sardis; Stone County Hospital, Wiggins; Gilmore Memorial Hospital, Amory; South Washington County Hospital, Hollandale; Yalobusha General Hospital, Water Valley; North

Mississippi Medical Center, Tupelo; Magnolia Hospital, Corinth; South Panola Community Hospital, Batesville; Coastal Medical Center Hospital, Edgewater Park; Tishomingo County Hospital, Iuka; Claiborne County Hospital, Port Gibson; and Southwest Mississippi Regional Medical Center, McComb.

North Panola County Hospital was approved for an expenditure of $780,000 to allow the hospital to add 33 beds. An expenditure of $1.7 million was approved for Stone County Hospital, Wiggins, for the construction of a new 40-bed facility.

A newborn intensive care center was approved for the Gilmore Memorial Hospital, Amory, involving an expenditure of $150,000. South Washington County Hospital, Hollandale, was granted an expenditure of $270,000 for the addition of 10 acute care beds and related work area, including laboratory, administrative and business offices, medical records and a piped oxygen system.

Yalobusha General Hospital, Water Valley, was approved for an expansion of current bed capacity, an expenditure of $850,000. The North Mississippi Medical Center, Tupelo, approved for a 100-bed addition, involved an expenditure of $1.6 million.

Magnolia Hospital, Corinth, was approved for an expenditure of $1.2 million for expansion of the emergency room, creation of physical therapy and inhalation therapy departments, creation of an out patient department, provision of additional space for the clinical lab and pharmacy and construction of an ambulance garage.

Approval was also given to South Panola Community

Hospital, Batesville, for the construction of a 70-bed nonprofit hospital costing $3 million. Batesville's two existing facilities will be closed upon completion of the new hospital.

Construction of 225-bed proprietary hospital on the Gulf Coast, named Medical Center Hospital, was approved. The project will cost $4.5 million.

An expenditure of $29,644.50 was approved for Tishomingo County Hospital, Iuka, to purchase a radioisotope scanner. Claiborne County Hospital, Port Gibson, was approved for $1.5 million for construction of a new 40-bed hospital, replacing the present facility.

Southwest Mississippi Regional Medical Center, McComb, was approved for a $4.5 million expansion program including the addition of 42 beds and substantial increases in space allocated for ancillary services.

Ten Arrested On Narcotics Charges

Hancock sheriff's deputies arrested a Waveland man and three juveniles Sunday night in a Waveland motel and booked all four on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia.

Charles Wendell Williams, 22, who gave a Turner street address, was scheduled for a hearing Tuesday night before Justice of the Peace Joseph Dobson. The three juveniles, a 15-year-old girl and 16-year-old boy both from Bay St. Louis, and a 16-year-old Pass Christian youth, were referred to juvenile authorities for further action.

In an unrelated case, Highway Safety Patrolmen Clyde Hester and Hershel Ladner arrested three Thibodeaux, La. juveniles on narcotics charges Tuesday night about midnight. The two 16-year-olds and a 14-year-old were booked at the county jail as runaways and charged additionally with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. Special Agents Ronald Peterson and Paul Bernard assisted in the arrests.

Earlier the same evening, Ladner and Hester stopped Arjen A. Nihart, 23, of Belle Chasse, La. as he was driving on Highway 90 and charged him with driving while intoxicated. A search of the vehicle resulted in charges of possession of marijuana being brought against Nihart and two companions, Lawson Hill, 24, and Joseph E. Brown, 22, and an additional charge of possession of pornographic material against Nihart.

Hill listed his address as 701 Dante St., New Orleans and Brown gave a Mobile, Ala. address. A hearing on the case has been set for Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Joseph Dobson.

Local VA News

BY
Chester L. Curvey

The Veterans Farm and Home Board of Mississippi will lend a qualified veteran eighty percent of the cost of a home or a farm not to exceed $16,000 at only six percent interest.

Veterans of world war I, world war II and the Korean War who served 90 days or more and all veterans discharged for reasons of a service-connected disability, plus all veterans released after Jan. 31, 1955 with 181 days of active duty after that date are eligible. Eligibility for all the above, of course, requires other than a dishonorable discharge.

All applicants must also have been residents of the State of Mississippi or resided in Mississippi for at least two years immediately preceding the date of application for the loan. The property must be in the State of Mississippi.

Papers required by the V.F. and H.B. are a certificate of discharge, either a DD-214 or a W.D.-AGO 53-55 or PayPers 553 plus a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration or a completed VA Form 26-1880 to make application for the loan.

An appraisal deposit of $60 is required, which is sent with your application for a loan. If the application is disapproved before an appraisal of the property is made, $45 will be returned. If the appraisal is made the entire $60 is retained. The appraisal is made by the Veterans Administration. Eighty percent of that appraisal price, up to a maximum of $16,000 is loaned to the applicant. In the above statement there is an implied word of caution, which is that if you do not have a substantial job and a good credit rating you may lose part or all of your appraisal deposit if you are turned down.

This is probably the best interest rate available today. The Loan Warranty of the Veterans Administration is now seven and three quarters percent. Loans will be made to qualified applicants as long as the money of the V.F. and H.B. is available. The V.F. and H.B. is given a set amount of dollars each year and they loan until that amount is gone.

For information about getting this loan and assistance in filling out your paper work see your Hancock County Veterans Service Officer in the Court House or call 467-5404.

DON'T FORGET YOUR HOME GARDEN

If you do, the insects won't. Losses can occur very quickly when we get careless. So keep watching for those insects. Blister beetles travel in packs, and they like tomato, egg and pepper plants. Since there are several to feed on your plants fast action is needed. Spray or dust with Sevin or methoxychlor. To prepare a spray or Sevin or methoxychlor mix 3 level tablespoons of 50 percent wettable powder to each gallon of water.

You may have to treat to control the Mexican-bean beetle on your snap beans. Look for small yellow spiny worms feeding on the leaves. If observed treat with Sevin, rotenone, methoxychlor, diazinon or malathion. Use a 5 percent dust except the rotenone. In this case use a 1-1/2 percent. To prepare a spray use three tablespoons of 50 percent Sevin or 50 percent methoxychlor or 1 teaspoon of 48 percent diazinon or 2 teaspoons of 50 percent malathion.

PATCHWORK ADDS COLOR ANYWHERE IN THE HOME
When someone mentions patchwork, probably the first thing many people used to think of was the pieced quilt on grandma's bed. Now it is used for the "natural" look that is so prominent in home furnishing trends.

Today, the patchwork design is just as much at home on table napkins and placemats, cushions or wall decorations.

Patchwork can add color and design anywhere in the house. Use it to accent plain furnishings. A colorful cover on a cushion, for example, can spotlight, rather than subdue a sofa or chair.

Patchwork placemats may add a touch of conversation. Or, a study area can come to life with a patchwork rug made of remnant carpet samples.

Patches on the wall can be fun, too. Design a patchwork wall hanging. And be creative. Don't limit your patches to the usual square. And use some of the decorative stitches of the zig-zag sewing machine.

To give your creations some semblance of harmony, look for patches that have something in common. Perhaps it's the same print or the same color. Or you can use scraps of many designs and colors together by grouping them on a piece of material that brings out the best in all of them.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Many ailments and troubles gradually succumb to time and fade away, but there's one old American malady that's still around; in fact, you might say that it's louder than ever! We refer to the well-known complaint called "running off at the mouth", commonly affecting politicians, preachers and ladies' aid societies.

How many words would you say make up the record, to date, of the Watergate hearings—two million, maybe three? And how much would you say all these words had cost, including the pay of the dozens of people involved in the investigation? You can't count up that high? Well, neither can we, but it must total quite a bill. And for what? Even if the learned senators discovered that many of the witnesses had committed mayhem and murder, they are not empowered to do a thing about it except to recommend. But they've had a fine chance to "run off at the mouth" in full television view of the whole country, and there is even talk of one of them running for President. His strongest qualification is that he comes from Tennessee.

But we don't have to go to Washington to see—and hear!—victims of this malady; did you ever attend a meeting of the learned leaders of our State, county or city governments? Their disputations often continue for hours, when they could have had their whole say in minutes. President Coolidge once sat through a long sermon about sin; when his wife asked him what the minister said about it, Calvin replied, "He was against it."

Why, Man, was given the ability to express himself in words has not been determined by the philosophers. Maybe for his enjoyment, for Man—and woman!—certainly likes the sound of his voice. As William Hazlitt said about the poet Coleridge, "He entered and dissipated all doubts on the subject, by beginning to talk. He did not cease while he stayed; nor has he since, that I know of." Are you acquainted with anyone like that?

We recently attended a commencement exercise at a nearby Louisiana college. The distinguished speaker opened on some esoteric subject and went on and on and on, while more and more guests quietly slipped away to the refreshment room. We joined them and found that after their long enforced silence, the one thing they wanted most to do was—talk!

Whether it's Watergate or bee culture, atomic fission or television commercials, the chatter goes on and on. We do not know what the end result of all this talk will be. But we agree with old Omar, "...this was all the Harvest that I reap'd—I came like Water, and like Wind I go."

TREE PLANTING

It is still too early to plant trees, but here are some points to ponder when the season for planting does get here. Dig a hole large enough for the natural spread of the roots. Loosen soil in bottom of hole and plant the tree at the same depth at which it grew in the nursery.

Do not let the roots dry out before the tree is planted. Keep them moist. Stake to anchor the tree. You can anchor the tree with wires threaded through a section of garden hose to prevent damaging bark.

Prune off one-third of the branches so the roots will be able to feed the remaining top. Cut branches next to the stem or trunk. Do not destroy natural form of the tree.

Replace the subsoil with good top soil high in humus in bottom of hole. Mulch the newly planted tree. Water often with a good soaking. Fix a dish-shaped depression around tree so that it will hold water.

WEED CONTROL

Tall grasses and weeds around fence rows, sheds, barns and other outbuildings do not have a very pleasing effect on the landscape. The grass and weeds can be removed easily and economically with chemicals.

Paraquat, cacodylic acid and weed oils offer excellent activity killing only the weeds sprayed. Adding karmex, simazine or atrazine will give some preemergence control of emerging weeds.

DSMA, MSMA and dalapon are excellent grass herbicides. Where a general knockdown of grassy type plants, both annual and perennial, is desired, then dalapon would be the recommendation. If sensitive plants are not nearby, 2, 4-D could be added to the dalapon and a general knockdown of most grasses and broadleaf weeds would be expected.

As effective, but seldom used herbicide for general control of a wide range of both broadleaf and grass weeds, including poison ivy and honeysuckle is amitrol. With this material there is less likelihood of damaging other plants than there is with the dalapon-2, 4-D mixture.

DAIRY RECORDS

Did you know that only 20 to 25 percent of Mississippi dairymen have their herds on a production testing program? These are the top dairymen!

The other 75 percent to 80 percent of the dairymen need to know that production testing records will help them make more money. The records will let them know each cow's production so the high producers can be fed more profitable. Records will show the dairymen his culls so that he can get rid of them while beef prices are high. Records will also let him know which cows are bringing calves each 12 months.

is something that can be done to stop this licensed thief. If there is anything you can do to help me publicize this, or recover $6.25, I would appreciate this. Thank you.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

TRIMMING THE FAT

If we had staged a contest last year to see who wasted the most tax dollars here in Washington, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would have won hands down.

Today, however, the new Secretary of HEW, Casper Weinberger, is showing signs of trimming some of the fat from that oversized bureaucratic institution. To show just how seriously he is taking his new job, the former Director of the Office of Management and Budget recently announced that he is slashing HEW's budget for public relations by some 77 percent.

That, alone, will save the taxpayers $20 million!

Over the past several years, HEW has built up one of the biggest armies of publicity agents in the federal government. They have busied themselves by defending HEW from public criticism and by planting stories about the agency in newspapers and on radio and television.

Like any bureaucracy worth its salt in Washington, the press agent department got bigger and bigger. A monster was born.

Then, in stepped Mr. Weinberger and out went some 275 HEW publicity publications and some 70 paid consultants. When the smoke had cleared, he had eliminated 184 jobs and had transferred 682 public affairs employees to other jobs in HEW.

Also slated for the ax are 29 or 30 HEW newsletters and 245 external publications, most of them published once a year.

In a July 19 memo ordering agency heads to submit cutback plans, Weinberger said HEW's public affairs operation costs exceeded $175 million a year including $120 million in salaries although only two newsmen cover the department full time.

As a result of the plans, the reorganization will save $3.3 million in salaries, $1.7 million in consultancy fees, $1 million in personnel benefits and equipment, $500,000 in discontinued newsletters and $13.5 million in phaseout of magazines and reports.

Furthermore, Weinberger directed his program managers to assure -- in his words -- that "these savings are passed along to the people we serve in the most beneficial way."

The cutback will leave 249 of HEW's 1,199 public affairs employees, three consultants and more than 1,100 internal and external publications. Even that seems a bit excessive.

The amazing thing is that this exiled legion of public relations experts became so large in the first place. Who in this world would think that two newsmen would need more than 1,000 public information specialists at their beck and call?

Unfortunately, the budget cut at HEW is only the tip of the iceberg as far as the problem of excessive federal spending is concerned. Similar cuts of the operating costs of our government should be made in all agencies, and they should be made now.

As taxpayers who are footing the bill, you should demand nothing less.

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:

I have had a problem in your town with one of your local Motels. I do not know if you can help, or if you have a Column in your paper, like we have in our State Times. It is Action Please.

When people have certain problems the Newspaper sort of investigates, and prints the letters and results of their investigation on the front page of the paper.

I will try briefly to tell you of the mistreatment I got from the Travelrest Motel. Hwy. 90 West.

I might say at this time that I've already written and received replies from Hancock Chamber of Commerce, Senator John C. Stennis. I've directed a letter to the B.B.B. in Jackson, Miss. but as yet have not received a reply.

On Sept. 1, I made an unexpected trip to Long Beach. After arriving, I tried in vain to get accommodations at motels in and around Long Beach and Gulfport. I tried several in Bay St. Louis and finally found that Travelrest had one room available. I asked if the room could be reserved only until the storm that was going on, let up. I was told definitely not, since it was Labor Day Weekend. I practically begged the Mgr. to hold the room for me, at least until the rain subsided some. He would not reserve the room. "First come first serve" he told me. I left my sisters home in a downpour of rain, to be "first come." I arrived and registered, paying $28.25 for one night's accommodations.

I went to the room, opened the door to an extremely hot room, with a window unit that I assume was broken. The odor of the room was very offensive, and I knew immediately that I could not sleep in that odor. I went back to the desk, and told the Mgr. that the room was not acceptable, and asked for my money back. He gave me $20.00, saying that the $6.25 he was keeping for the reservations he had made for me. I tried to make him remember that only 30 short minutes ago, he had flatly refused to reserve the room for me, even after I begged him to hold the room at least until the rain subsided. He said $20.00 was all that he was going to refund me, and that if I did not vacate the premises, he would call the police. I asked for a receipt for my $6.25, and he gave it to me, and put "on reservations" on the receipt. I again told him that he knew in his heart that he did not reserve the room, and had no right to hold my money, or put "reservations" on my receipt.

His wife asked him to go ahead and give me the balance of my money, but he said "definitely no," and threatened me with the police again. I had two small children in the car, and could not afford for him to call the police, so I left. I told him that I'd contact every agency, or newspaper, or anybody that could stop this man from stealing from other poor innocent people.

Could you tell me if this man, (I can't make his last name out, on my receipt. Dixon is his first name) is the owner or only the mgr. My receipt when I registered was signed B. Ashman. I would like very much to contact the owner, if he is not the same man, and ask if he approves of this. Surely there

Chamber Report

By Sylvia McComiskey

Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Manager

The Hancock County Blood Bank will have a blood drawing on Wednesday, October 10 from 2 until 6 p.m., at the American Legion Home. Our Blood Bank is in desperate need of replenishment. Give a little, help a lot! This is an excellent way to support your community at no cost to you.

The week of October 7 through 13 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week by the Hancock County Firemen's Association. There will be fire drills during this period at all schools in Hancock County. George Cleary, Chairman of the Chamber Fire Prevention Committee asks that all business establishments join this effort by checking their premises for fire hazards and inform their employees of safe exits, etc., should a fire occur.

As most of you are aware, Lockheed Propulsion Company is one of four bidders vying for the contract from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) for development of solid rocket motors for the Space Shuttle Program. This contract is due to be awarded in mid-November and is our understanding that Lockheed is the only bidder who, if awarded the contract, will utilize MTF facilities for this work.

The program is scheduled to run from 1974 through 1989 and will mean at least 800 new jobs, over half at MTF with the remainder at Michoud in New Orleans. Needless to say, our Chamber, along with State officials, is contacting NASA in Washington and any of our representative officials in Washington, to use their powers to give Lockheed major consideration for this contract. Just letting you know that your Chamber is keeping abreast of this possible boom for Hancock County.

Coordination Of Drug Agencies Emphasized

The state director of drug affairs, David Speights, addressed the regular monthly meeting of the Region 13 Commission for Mental Health and Mental Retardation on Sept. 17.

Speights emphasized the importance of coordinating drug services through such organizations as the Region 13 Commission.

The Gulf Coast Mental Health Center is the grantee agency for an initiation and development drug project. Speights also discussed the function of the state drug abuse office and its role in assisting in the development of drug abuse programs at the state and local level. In other business, Dr. G.

Kinsey Stewart, director of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, reported that the Center received 124 requests for services in August, of which 82 were new and 32 were reopened. The total number of cases to date is 3,065, with an active caseload of 699. Dr. Stewart also announced that the Mississippi Council for Mental Health Centers will hold a meeting in Biloxi on Oct. 18.

Other guests at the meeting were Dr. Clifton B. Davis,

Mental Health Center clinical director; Harry Allen, commission attorney; Bruce Phillips, initiation and development principal investigator; and Walt Racey,

Mental Health Center administrative assistant.

Commissioners are John C. Dees, chairman; L.V. Evans, vice-chairman; James Rester, treasurer; and Chaplain A. L. McKnight, executive secretary.

Region 13 is comprised of Harrison, Hancock, Stone and Pearl River Counties.

Vets Warned To Watch Calendar

Recently returned Vietnam Era veterans are advised to "keep an eye on the calendar" to avoid overlooking important federal and state obligations and benefits, according to Marilyn J. Cook, Assistant Center Director for Regional Office at the Jackson VA Center.

Cook suggested veterans follow this recommended schedule:

—As soon as possible, register with local state employment service office. (Veterans have up to one year to apply for unemployment compensation, but applications filed after a long period of unemployment could result in a lower rate of unemployment compensation).

—In 10 days, report address to Selective Service through local board (in person or by mail).

—In 30 days, register with Selective Service or any local board, if not already registered.

—In 90 days, apply to former employer for reemployment.

—In 120 days, (one year if totally disabled at time of separation) convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to private, commercial policy.

—Within one year from date of notice of VA rating on disability, apply to any VA office for G.I. life insurance based on service connected disability.

—Within one year, apply to any VA office for dental care.

—As soon as possible, apply to any VA office for G.I.

education or training, which must be completed within eight years of separation from military service.

Cook said there are no time limits for veterans to:

—Apply to any VA office for a G.I. loan guaranty to buy a farm, or buy, build or improve a home.

—File claims with any VA office for compensation for service connected disabilities or disease, or apply for hospital care.

Pass Christian Plans Legal Action To Stop Dredging

by Renee Smith
Staff writer

Preliminary action has been taken by the city of Pass Christian in objection to dead reef dredging operations in Pass Christian waters by Potashnick Materials, Inc. Signed affidavits by residents of the city are being collected as a prelude to future legal action spearheaded by city officials who feel that Potashnick's dredging operations are undermining offshore keys.

According to Pass Christian Mayor Steve Saucier, certain keys which were exposed before dredging operations began in mid-1973 are now under water.

Saucier said the city sent a letter to the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission requesting that the area restricted to shell dredging be clearly marked. This request was made, he added, to provide some means to accurately determine if the dredging barge is operating inside or outside the restricted zone and because the commission has refused allegations by fishermen that the barge has been seen working inside the zone.

The mayor explained that the area also needs to be marked because there is no way the dredge boat operator can accurately tell if he is 500 feet from the shelves which create a "natural invitation" for him to cross into the restricted area.

The city is also requesting that an inspector be present on the barge as specified in the contract. An inspector should be stationed on the barge full time because at night there is no one to see where the barge is dredging and it would be quite simple for the boat to slip into the restricted area; dredge shells and then slip out unnoticed, Saucier explained.

The mayor said he had attended a commission meeting and pleaded for action on the matter. Letters concerning the situation had also been sent to the commission, but in both cases, the commission "turned a deaf ear," he stated.

As an alternative Saucier said he and Alderman Jerry Andersen sent a letter to Governor Bill Waller which depicted in detail what was happening to the keys. After the governor's office sent a letter to the commission, Saucier said, commission officials phoned him and offered to go with him to inspect the situation.

During the inspection last Thursday, "we located the keys," Saucier said, "but they were under approximately six feet of water."

The city is especially concerned about the situation because at the present there are young oysters growing on the keys and "we are worried that the dredge will get them," he added.

Sports and commercial fishing are an important industry to Pass Christian, Saucier continued. The keys are vital to the industry because they attract large numbers of fish, he said. The sinking of these shelves has got to be stopped, the mayor continued. If dredging is not the cause, the city is asking the commission to conduct a scientific study to determine the actual cause, he stated. Both the Marine Commission and Potashnick maintain the boat is not dredging in restricted waters but several citizens have alleged that they have seen the barge in the area, Saucier continued.

William Demoran, marine biologist for the commission, said that he doubts seriously if the dredging is the cause of the reef sinking. According to Demoran, during last spring, and especially last March, the Coast had extremely high tides and rough waters which would normally change the configuration of the shelves.

The commission stated in its answer to the governor's letter that it will undertake a study of past and present shell dredging operations and would furnish the governor with a copy of the report.

"We realize that mudshell dredging is an unpopular operation with some groups and individuals as are offshore oil drilling and the proposed superport, however, we feel that all can be done without destroying the environment or our marine fisheries resources," the letter also stated.

According to Demoran, if the reefs are dredged there is the possibility of a silt load being carried over the reef or of the reef sinking, however, the commission has kept the dredging operation a safe distance from the reefs and keys to prevent such an occurrence.

There have been efforts by some individuals to get the commission to cancel the contract with Potashnick but the commission attorney told Demoran that this can only be done by mutual consent of the commission and the contractor.

In answer to the city's request for an inspector to be placed on the boat, Demoran said inspectors go on the boat almost every day to get reports on the dredging. "In years past we have put a man on the boat but we came to feel that this was an unnecessary waste of his time and our money," he added.

If a full-time inspector on the boat becomes necessary, Demoran continued, it will strain the commission's manpower and money and other projects will suffer. "I hate to see this happen since there are several things which we are presently doing which will greatly benefit the public," he said.

According to Demoran, the commission receives a minimum of $60,000 a year from the dredging operations which finances projects such as an annual shell planting program. These funds are extremely necessary to the operation of the commission. He explained that the commission's revenues for fiscal year 1973 were $139,825 of which $80,000 came from the sale of dead shell reefs. The Marine Commission is a self-supporting agency and possibly the only one in the state, he added. It is not funded by an annual appropriation.

"We are entrusted with a multi-million dollar seafood industry," Demoran said, "and we have been told by certain legislators on the state budget committee that the state would definitely not make an annual appropriation to the Marine Commission so that it can carry out activities to benefit a specific industry on the Coast."

Seafood and marine related industries, such as marine fuels and supplies, net making and the production of ice, bring more than $20 million a year in fishing products to the state, he said. He suggested that taxes from the industry could be reverted back to the state and earmarked for marine conservation.

If this were done the commission would not have to sell dead shell reefs and, he added, that he would gladly relinquish the $80,000 collected from shell dredging if the commission had another source of income.

Demoran stressed that he would not allow the dredges to destroy the reefs because he is mainly an oyster biologist. "I allow the reefs to be destroyed, I would be putting myself out of business," he explained.

In a study which he made on the effects of dredging on marine life, Demoran pointed out that in 1963 the Coast experienced the greatest oyster production since the late 1930's. During the 1963 season 300,000 barrels of oysters were harvested at the same time dead reef shells were being dredged less than a mile from active oyster reefs. During the succeeding five year period more than 100,000 barrels of oysters were harvested from areas lying due south of the city of Pass Christian.

In the study, Demoran stated that he concurred with the findings of three other marine biologists who found that oysters are virtually unaffected by shell dredging if the operation is a safe distance (approximately 400 feet) from the reefs.

"I have carefully set aside areas which should be excluded from dredging because of their value as sport fishing areas," Demoran stated. He added that the shells being dredged have not been productive in the past hundred years.

John A. Green, vice-president of Potashnick, said previously that the company only dredges dead shells most of which are buried under a layer of silt at the bottom of the sound. He added that shells dredged will be used as seed shells in other areas to build and develop producing reefs and beds.

State Hosts Australian Rotarians

The operations of State Government, its executive, judicial and legislative systems, was the subject of an official briefing held recently for six Australian businessmen.

AS delegates of the 1973 Group Study Exchange Award Team, sponsored by Rotary International, the Australians are spending some two months in Mississippi and the surrounding area.

The Rotary Foundation program is an educational one designed to provide outstanding young business and professional men with the opportunity for studying another country, its people and institutions; further international understanding by personal contacts; and to be involved in a specific, practical and meaningful international service project.

The briefings, coordinated by the Mississippi A & J Board, covered various aspects of state government. Each topic of discussion was presented by an official of that respective branch of State Government.

The briefings consisted of talks on the "Organization of the Executive Branch,"

Herman Glazier, executive assistant to the Governor; "Importance of Agriculture to Mississippi," C.B. Noblin, deputy director, Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce; "Fiscal Policy of Mississippi," W. Hampton King, state auditor of public accounts; "Mississippi's Judicial System," Judge Henry Rogers, presiding justice of the Mississippi Supreme Court; and "Mississippi Legislature," by Senator Con Maloney.

Judge Rogers, an extremely knowledgeable source on Australian court procedures and structure, presented an interesting comparative analysis of the judicial systems of Mississippi and Australia. As both systems are patterned after the British court system, the similarities are numerous.

A breakdown of the state budget, property taxes and assessments were discussed by State Auditor King. Australia, like Mississippi, spends the larger part of its tax dollar on education.

Senator Maloney escorted the group during a tour of the Capitol Senate Chambers. He discussed Mississippi's system of election, representation, committee system and legislative responsibility with the group.

The six Australian Rotarians all represented different professions in their country. According to their host, Larry Taylor, local Rotarian and president of a Jackson machine works company, the visiting group consists of Brian Coogan, accountant; David John Crandon, office equipment salesman; Peter Maurice Ford, crop and livestock farmer; John Quilty, engineer; Colin Raymond Lambert, home builder; and Bruce Cousins, police prosecutor.

While in Mississippi, the group is residing in the homes of State Rotarians.

State Educators To Convene In Biloxi

Some 600 guidance personnel and other educators from over Mississippi are expected to attend the Mississippi Personnel and Guidance Association Convention, set for Nov. 15-16 at the Sheraton-Biloxi Motor Inn in Biloxi. Registration starts at 8:30 a.m., Nov. 15.

The keynote speaker will be Dr. Thomas J. Sweeney, counsel educator at Ohio University. In addition to the keynote speech, Dr. Sweeney will lead a workshop session on consultation practice.

MPGA president Mrs. Genevieve Burris, counselor at Pascagoula High School, said, "This year's keynote speaker will discuss the demands made upon counselors to be accountable for the effectiveness of the services they provide. In addition, this year's convention will offer a wide variety of skill-oriented workshops in which counselors may learn a new, practical skill."

Serving as convention coordinator is Dr. Daniel Lee Randolph, associate professor of Counseling and Guidance at the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg.

Dr. Randolph said that highlights of the convention include outstanding speakers, workshops on various topics, presentations of special awards, and a new addition to the convention, "College Night," which will be held on the evening before the convention.

State Funds Sewage Systems For Cities

The Cities of Biloxi and Pascagoula have been awarded grants for the construction of wastewater treatment facilities totaling more than three-quarters of a million dollars by the Mississippi Air & Water Pollution Control Commission.

In a presentation last week, Commission Executive Director Glen Wood, Jr., handed Biloxi Mayor Jerry O'Keefe a check for $500,000, the first payment of a State grant of $1,076,494 for construction of sewage facilities. The City of Pascagoula received $287,500 for its facility, the State's total participation in the project.

Totalling 12.5 percent of the total costs eligible for grant money, the Pascagoula grant falls under a new system of grant participation in which the Federal Government can provide 75 percent of the funds with State government and the municipality involved providing 12.5 percent each. Biloxi's grant was applied for under an old system whereby the Federal Government provided 50 percent and the State and municipality 25 percent each.

The cities received the grants through the State Water Pollution Abatement Grant Program established in 1968 by the State Legislature. Under the program costs for various aspects of planning; building; altering, acquiring or extending; and inspection and supervision of the construction of treatment works are eligible for State grant participation.

Any political subdivision that is authorized to own, maintain and operate a sewage, industrial waste or waste collection, treatment and disposal system and is eligible to receive Federal grant funds is also eligible for State grant aid.

A LIKELY STORY—Her husband has been gone for years and now he tells her he has been with a one-eyed monster named Cyclops, a witch named Circe, a nymph named Calypso. So, she lets him have it with a knitting needle, thus exploding another myth in the University of Southern Mississippi theatre arts production of "A Company of Wayward Saints," opening Oct. 11 for a three-night run. Sue Hinton of Iuka plays the epic hero's dubious wife and Dan Griffin of Bay St. Louis is the punctured adventurer in George Herman's laugh-packed play directed by Dr. Gilbert Hartwig. ## Altrusa Plans Funorama In Gulfport Fun for all ages will prevail Oct. 13 from 10 a.m. - 7 p.m. when Altrusa Club of Gulfport sponsors a Funorama at the old Louisville and Nashville Depot in downtown Gulfport. Proceeds from the event will be used to help finance a recreation room addition to the Harrison County Home for the Aged. Plans and specifications for the room call for a 24x24 area, glassed on three sides, with air conditioning and a half bath. Estimated cost is $8,000, according to the Harrison County Board of Supervisors who have committed $4,000 to the project, originally suggested by Altrusa. The Club hopes to produce the matching funds from monies previously budgeted for that purpose, plus Funorama earnings.

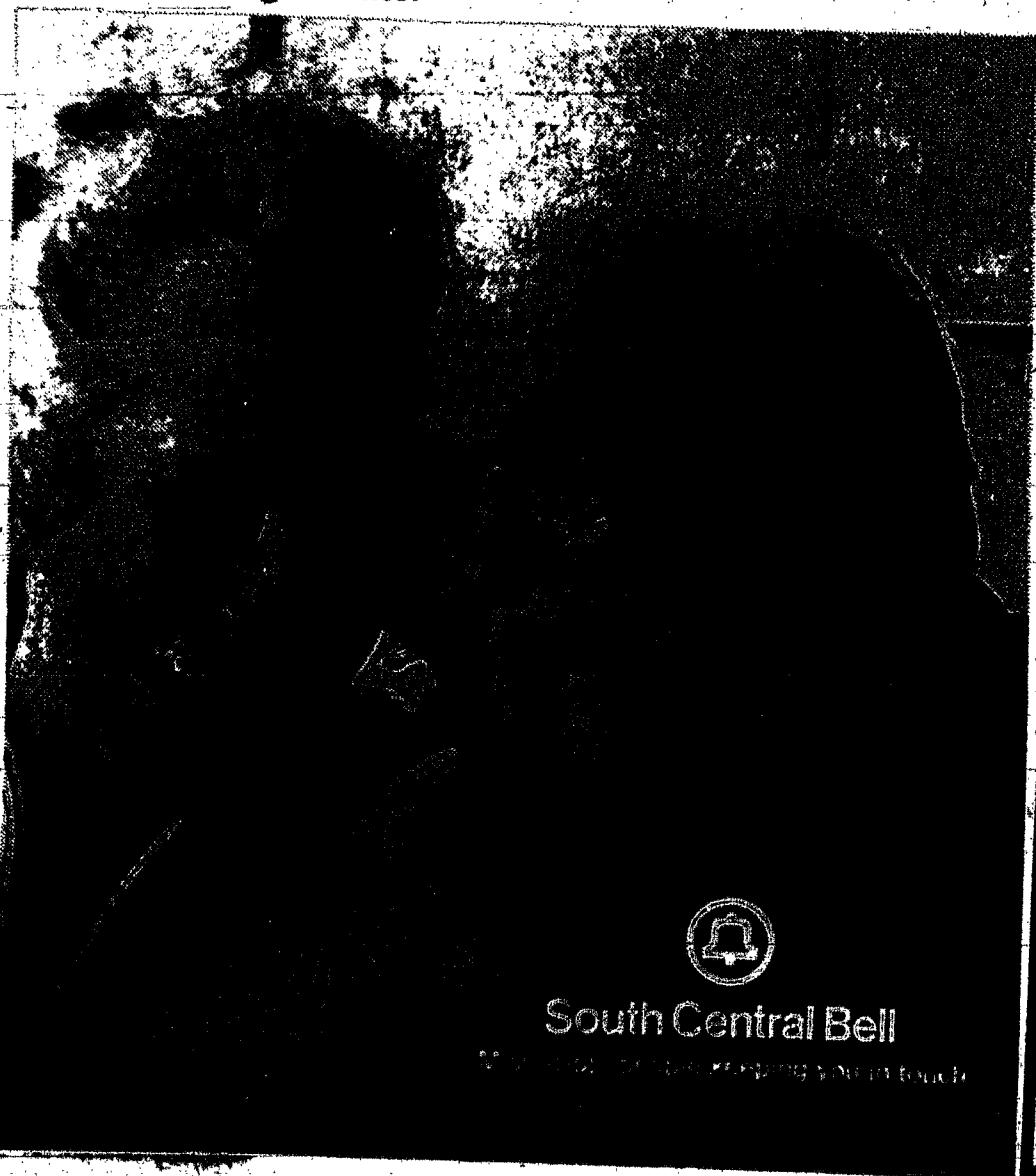

The Funorama will feature a food service specializing in refreshments served at a sidewalk cafe. Special attraction of the food service will be an "on the spot" bakery which will turn out hot bread, doughnuts and cinnamon rolls. There will also be a Country Store stocked with the usual items of pickles, jams and jellies; a home bakery and candyland. For the men, there will be the Lion's Den. Witchcraft will cater to feminine tastes; Teen Town will feature items for the teen-aged set, and the Zoo will be stocked with a large collection of stuffed animals. There'll be an Attic Treasures section, a New-To-You Store, and a unique Haggie Booth where prospective buyers may dictate their own prices. The main booth area, set up in the main terminal, will include Arts and Crafts; Magic Needle; Christmas Shop; Words and Music; Potpourri; Kids' Korner, and a special Silent Auction where items contributed by entertainment celebrities and sports world figures will be bid for—silently. Outdoors, the "flower girl" will preside in the Flower Mart featuring dried arrangements, dried flowers, pot plants and hanging baskets. Local artist Josephine Alfonso will set up her easel near the sidewalk cafe for quick sketching. Satisfaction guaranteed or there's no charge. Also in the outdoor area, Willi the Clown (M-Sgt. George Wilson of Keesler Air Force Base) will pursue his aim of "making people forget their own troubles for a little while" near a balloon, peanut and popcorn stand. The Eight and Forty locomotive will add to the railroad station atmosphere as it patrols the area, and two rock bands will alternate in providing live music from the platform adjacent to the Station. To keep the youngsters occupied while Mom and Dad shop at leisure, there'll be a children's game area. Also for the youngsters, there will be an art contest with trophies to be awarded in three categories for school-aged children.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gaines of New Orleans spend as much time as they can in their retirement home on Golf Club Drive. Mr. Gaines is a retired petroleum engineer. Their son who is in medical school in New Orleans is a frequent visitor.

The Ladies Social Club luncheon last Friday was a success with more than 60 members and guests turning up for the first organizational luncheon meeting. This will be a monthly event, and programs will be planned enabling new members to get acquainted. The meal was delectable and many members left with new friends to enjoy.

The Citizens Advisory Committee was formed Sept. 25. I will list the participants as soon as possible.

The Martinaires did a fine job of entertaining. Reservations are needed on Saturday evening for the Red Room, now, since all our summer residents take full advantage of the club's weekly supper dances and other entertainment. Mr. Gonneau plans special supper menus for this weekly event.

SUNFISH REGATTA

Eleven-year-old Gigi Staehle, 1971 Bay-Waveland Sunfish champion, sailed to a decisive first place in the final championship race of the BWYC Sunfish Regatta. Some 52 skippers competed in the eight separate categories in a total of 22 races, held Sept. 29 and 30 at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

The series began with the Juniors sailing first Saturday morning in beautiful weather, but it wasn't long before the thunder rolled in. Fortunately, the squall hit during the Heavyweight class for the men, were quite capable of handling the gusty winds, both on their boats and in the water as several took turns flipping over.

The worst effect of the squall was the lack of breeze.

When it blew over, it was quite an accomplishment for Race Committee Chairman Harry Chapman, to conduct the remaining 17 races in the light fluky air prevailing for the rest of the week-end.

Peggy Chapman was the Champion in the Junior Division, followed closely by Gigi Staehle second and Randy Santa Cruz third.

In the Ladies Class Ann Stieffell finished first, with Weezy Kennedy second and Diane Ladner third.

The Heavyweight Champion was Charlie Staehle; Basil Kennedy was second and Pete Morrill third.

Elizabeth Chapman was first in the Teen Class, with Ellen Eagan second and Chris Stieffell third.

Eight-year-old Harry Chapman, Jr. was the only skipper to win all three races in his division and finish with a perfect score as Champion of the Tyke Class. Mark Ladner was second and Matt Stieffell third.

Rod Stieffell was the A-Class Champion, with Mimi Eagan and Ricky Flanders a very close second and third place. Champion of the Senior Division was Marc Eagan; in second place was Charlie Staehle with Harry Chapman third.

The top two skippers of each class met in the final championship race, which was held at BWYC on November 1.

Quite a crowd at the Club Saturday evening danced and enjoyed the expertly prepared Rice Dinner by Horace Akers, Bob Akers, Kergosien and evening was Hosted for Fleming.

4-H Gets It All Together

"Thousands of Mississippi 4-Hers are getting it all together" as they observe National 4-H Week, October 7-13," said Dr. Charles Sappington, leader in 4-H Youth Development for the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Begun early in this century as an educational program for rural youth, 4-H today brings both urban and rural boys and girls of all racial, economic and social backgrounds. Through individual and group efforts, they learn about the world around them, people, customs, lifestyles, like and forty projects are now. Over provide youth the opportunity to learn skills for living and skills for making a living, Sappington pointed out.

And that's what this year's theme, "4-H Gets It All Together" is all about. Young people getting to know each other and working together to solve mutual problems. Among the problems tackled by 4-Hers in Mississippi are environmental quality, conservation of natural resources, improving health standards and increased agricultural efficiency.

During National 4-H Week, Mississippi 4-Hers will assist in the clean-up campaign sponsored by the "Keep Mississippi Beautiful" committee. South Central Telephone Company has provided.

Dr. Sappington noted that 4-H in Mississippi relies heavily on volunteer leaders to provide relevant activities and guidance. Over 5,000 Mississippians volunteer their time, talent and resources to help 4-H members and other youth get it all together.

Many commercial and individual interests provide funds for awards, scholarships and support for various 4-H activities. "Everyone associated with 4-H appreciates this continued support for the youth of our state," said Dr. Sappington.

sole hasn't rains of the didn't help the water in Jourdan River Bayou La Croix, etc. is not too bad. Green trout, (bass) are hitting here and there, mostly there. Caught only nine but they were keepers two days in a row. Fishermen should remember, throw the small ones back. They will be larger next year. Speckle trout are still being caught off the Highway and railroad bridges. With a little colder weather they should move up Jourdan River. Trolling should be in order.

When trolling for speckles, most any under water baits pay off. For instance, all Microcolor, Side-winders, or any underwater baits. For green trout (bass) the Rebel or Repala-baits or a 2 1/2 spinner with treble hook and yellow skirt are most effective.

In last week's issue I said that there was a split season on squirrels but I did not say that the southern season opens on Nov. 3rd. Thanks to C. J. Cameron, one of our local game wardens, who put me wise.

We write about catching frogs. Did you know to catch frogs one must carry a combination fishing and hunting license and that the possession limit is 50?

Our old crabbing and floundering partner, Henry Lang, reports that he has been catching very few hard crabs, flounders and no soft crabs.

Must be a bad year, Henry. My mother said there would be years like this.

There is none better than Jessy Bennett when it comes to predicting fishing, crabbing, etc. Jessy said fishing will be better, come colder weather. Think he is right.

Don't know whether you know it or not, but the best things for fishing are rods, castings rods or baits. It dries in a few minutes and holds fast. Good for mending most anything.

There have been three fish kills in the same number of months. The last was in front of Mauffray's Hardware Store on the beach where dead fish were washed up on the shore. The reason no one seems to know. Lack of oxygen is claimed. Hope they find a solution.

The teal duck season is over. According to reports it wasn't too hot. In Louisiana it was claimed the poorest hunting season on record.

Reporting on fish kills: "J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, announced that the fish kills being reported by persons along the Louisiana coast from the general Slidell area to coast below Houma, and possibly even more westward, were the result of low oxygen levels caused by a rapid draining out of water in the bayous and marshes following extremely high tides." The same thing applies to Mississippi Coast lines.

Haven't had much information on dove hunting, of course, the boys going after them have gotten a few. We think the next two segments will be better. Who wants to hunt doves this hot weather?

While fishing have noticed quite a few rails and marsh hens on the banks of the bayous. Of course the season opens later. Us fishermen gets ours while fly fishing, trolling, and soon. Don't forget to get a duck stamp, if necessary.

M.F. Cass on Hattiesburg spent a couple of days with me. Did some fly-fishing and got our share of bass. Got wet a few times also.

Thanks to Tony Morreale for welding my aluminum boat. He is on Highway 90 and will gladly fix yours, if needed.

Buddy Pitale, the Brothers from St. Stanislaus and students from the school have been catching their share of speckles off the pier the past week. When speckles are running they can be caught off the Highway and R.R. bridges, the S.S.C. pier and Legion Pier.

Was a surprise to have a visit from Joe Glover from New Orleans one day last week. How about a fishing trip? Joe? Bass and perch are doing pretty good.

Hope our friend, Harry Brooks, is doing O.K. He has been hospitalized for a while. Hurry and get well. Fishing is good again.

Pop Seuzneau said he made a fishing trip the other day. Good news Pops. Keep it up. Fishing is good for what ails you. Better than staying home.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Rhodes enjoyed a three-day trip to Las Vegas recently. Had a swell trip, he said.

J.V. Toujade said he saw a black squirrel on Central Avenue the other day. Black squirrels are unusual. J.V. said he used to hunt them.

A good recipe for boiling fish: 1 tbs. of Lee and Perrin sauce; 1 lemon with 3 tbs. of catchup; little garlic, onion and oleo heated. Mix ingredients and boil. Any kind.

Wade Embry and Steve Plotkin went after speckle trout. Caught a few along the R.R. bridge. Saw a 10-lb. red fish caught on the Hwyay bridge by one fisherman. Said it was quite a job landing it.

A very effective bait is the Hawaiian Wiggler. It goes under water and from now on catches plenty bass. Excellent for trolling in the winter time.

Quite a number of fresh water cat fish are being caught up Bayou La Croix at this time. You can bait the line with most any kind of small fish. Small perch are preferable. Saw 16 caught the other night. Mighty good eating too.

Since there is three times as much water as dry land on earth, any one can plainly see the good Lord meant for men to fish three times as much as he plows. —Anon.

O'Possoms and Raccoons can be hunted all year. There is no limit. Run with dogs, except during turkey season. Oct. 4 - Nov. 16, take for food and pelts without gun. Nov. 17 - Feb. 15, take for food and pelts with gun. There are quite a few in the county.

We have always heard of mule speckle trout being caught by the railroad trestle bridge at North and South Shore in Lake Pontchartrain. Now is the time for the trout to start coming in.

Live shrimp, live minnows and small live croakers are the best baits. Boats and bait can be gotten at these spots most any time. Make reservations in advance for best results. Plenty fishermen are usually on hand. Give it a try.

Mrs. Julie Corne of Waveland reported she caught 10 flounders off the seawall down by Bayou Caddy Tuesday morning fishing with dead shrimp. They averaged two to two and a half pounds. The water was working with fish, she said.

Stork Shower Mrs. Robert Dale LaFontaine was honored with a stork shower September 19 hosted by Mesdames Ronald LaFontaine, David Marquar, Hugo Favre and Joe Bermond.

A scheme was used in the decorations. The honoree was presented a corsage fashioned of ribbon and miniature baby gadgets.

Games were played and prizes won by Misses Prima Luke and Peggy LaFontaine and Mrs. Dot Bermond.

Screening Program Set For B-W First Graders

The Gulf Coast Mental Health Program in cooperation with the Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary, is conducting a screening project this fall to help identify children with potential learning difficulties. Dr. Ray Cox, counseling psychologist, is coordinating the screening program, which is provided as part of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Program's regular service to Hancock County, and which is available to any child in the first grade enrolled in either a public or private school in Bay St. Louis or Waveland.

Children who have been referred by their teachers are being tested, as quickly as possible. IQ and achievement tests are being administered by Junior Auxiliary volunteers and evaluated by Dr. Cox. A rating of each child's behavior is provided by his teacher. Teacher conferences will be held to discuss recommendations and needs for further evaluation or referral. A parent conference will be held for the parents of children who have been screened. All testing should be completed by the end of October.

Courses Offered In Banking

A report on courses of study related to the banking business was given at a Sept. 19 meeting of the Mississippi Gulf Coast chapter of the American Institute of Banking.
